The had sought to remove his family by bringing them to this country; and he might have succeeded in making them convolved and happy here, but for his untimely death. We have often thought of adopting a little girl whom we could rear as our daughter, to be a comfort to us in our old age. But it has been difficult to find just the kind of a child we want—an Intelligent child of respectable parentage, capable of receiving a good eduration and doing us credit for our care and expense. Such children, But this dear little girl seems to have no one except the aunt in Barbodos, who is doubtless also in distress at this time, and would be glad that the little girl should find a good permanent home. We are people of moderate means, but can do well by the child. We would want her to come willing and also we must have the aunt's entered to remove his family by bringing them to this country; and he might have succeeded in making them configure and happy here, but for his untimely death.

My husband and I are elderly folks, without children. We have often how we could rear as our daughter, to be a comfort to us in our old age. But It has been difficult to find just the kind of a child we want—an intelligent child of respectable parentage, capable of receiving a good eduration and doing us credit for our care and expense.
